

View hundreds of locations around the world via webcam

July 31, 2009

The EarthCam website allows you to view hundreds of webcams around the world

If you are interested in viewing their world but can not move house, this page helps you to know that most places without an Internet connection, and supplements appropriate time, because there are hundreds of cameras to see.

Obviously not the same, but it is an acceptable solution. View webcams throughout the world to observe sites, some densely populated, others almost lonely. Is what provides the EarthCam site, whose sole purpose is to provide real-time view of what happens in places where such cameras are installed, and the variety is amazing.

Not only are updated constantly, but also to improve the technical level images with increasing quality, real-time video and some even allow moving or interacting zoom.
